Drawing influence from Acqualina's lush gardens and the reflection glistening off the Atlantic Ocean, Nancy crafted the exclusive art for The Mansions, taking nearly four months of work to complete. The 14 by 17 foot painting serves as a magnificent first impression in the Grand Salon of The Mansions. The finest handcrafted materials were used to bring the piece to fruition including mother of pearl and gold leaf.

“To have my paintings serve as the first impression for guests is a complete honor. It took almost four months working night and day and to finally see it installed is incredibly exciting,” said Nancy Lorenz.

The sold out luxury real estate, Mansions at Acqualina, is comprised of 79 of the world's finest residences with opulent features such as vent-less fireplace in the living rooms, open kitchen layout for entertainment, sunset terraces with private hot tub and summer kitchen. The multiple penthouses offer breathtaking 360 degree views of Miami and the Atlantic Ocean, private indoor pools and vast ceilings boasting over 15 feet, allowing light to flow throughout the residences.

Beginning with Acqualina Resort & Spa in Sunny Isles, The Mansions at Acqualina serve as the second installment to the revered Acqualina brand. The third addition, The Estates at Acqualina, recently hit a milestone, reaching over $400 million in sales, bridging off the tremendous success of the sold out Mansions.
